

SEND AMERICAN TO IRELAND, WAS CASEMENT PLEA

Cohalan and Others Are Further Involved in White Book.

By CARL W. ACKERMAN.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Additional light on German-Irish intrigues in the United States is given by the following excerpts from the British White Book, the more important parts of which were summarized in dispatches yesterday. Particularly interesting is the revelation as to what Irish leaders in America actually thought of Sir Roger Casement.

Excerpts from the most important documents follow:
John Devoy, writing confidentially to a fellow Irish leader in the United States, gave the following account of reasons for the failure of the Irish rebellion in 1916:

"The substance of it all is that a betrayal of information about the arrival of arms by Wilson's men enabled the English to catch the vessel. There is no doubt at all about this. They got in a raid on Von Igel's office, a note of mine, the transcript of a message received in cipher from Dublin, and a wireless to Berlin dated before the 17th of April, which was a request not to land the arms before the night of Sunday, the 23d.

British Intercepted Ship.
"It was at once given to the English and they sent out their patrol boats and caught the ship. Then they sent troops to Tralee and reinforced Limerick."

"That would have been spoiled the uprising because, if they were in the field, other ships would have been sent to catch the vessel. The English would have sent a message to McNeill that it was hopeless, etc. McNeill got it on Saturday and issued his countermand. We got one message up to McNeill who, of course, was obeying orders, and sent another by a priest for whom he sent after his arrest. McNeill had only been told of the decision on Good Friday, which was a great mistake."

The prominence of Judge Cohalan in the Easter rebellion is evident from the following telegrams quoted in the White Book from the foreign office in Berlin to the German Embassy in Washington:

"Casement being the following intelligence he transmitted for Justice Cohalan, 51 Chambers street, New York, Lady's identity is discovered by the enemy, who are alarmed and taking steps to defend Ireland and possibly arrest his friends. They are ignorant here of the purpose of my coming to Germany, but seek evidence at once. Here everything is favorable. The authorities are helping warmly. Send a messenger immediately to Ireland, fully informed verbally with no letter upon him."

"He should be native-born American citizen, otherwise his arrest is likely. Let him dispatch a priest here via Christiania quickly. The German Legation there in arrange passage. Also let him tell his wife to go to Berlin to connect everything belonging to me."

November 6, 1914."

A second message involving Justice Cohalan, dated April 20, 1916, was sent from the German Embassy in Washington to the Berlin Foreign Office. Cohalan requests me to send on the following: The Irish revolt can only succeed if assisted by Germany. Otherwise England will be able to crush it, although not until after a severe struggle. Assistance is required. There should be an air raid on England and a naval attack, timed to coincide with the uprising, followed by landing of troops and munitions and also of some officers, perhaps from an airship. It might then be possible to close the Irish harbors against England and set up bases for submarine operations. The uprising may decide the war."

The air raid and attack on the English coast actually took place, showing that Justice Cohalan's recommendations to Berlin were carried out.

Chases Husband

Twenty-one Years

To Win Divorce

After a chase of twenty-one years, Mrs. Leah B. Norman has finally caught up with her husband in Chicago and managed to get a divorce from him. According to her testimony, her husband, Frederick A. Norman, deserted her in November, 1899, eight years after they had been married.

He went to Kansas and then she lost track of him for while. For twenty-one years she sought in vain for her husband, who is an oil stock promoter. Always he eluded her.

Recently she learned that her husband was going to return to Chicago and through her attorney obtained a writ of ne exeat, which was served on him as he stepped from the train. The writ made it necessary for him to put up bonds guaranteeing his appearance and so the case was finally heard.

Judge Kichham Scanlan in the Circuit Court indicated he would grant a divorce and signed an agreed order whereby Frederick will pay his wife $10,000 in cash immediately and $5,000 annually for a period of five years as alimony.

Harriman Mission Touring

Continent to Watch Rivals

And Plan Ahead.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—The Harriman Shipping Mission, consisting of E. B. Robinson, of Philadelphia; John Cade, former American diplomatic representative in the Baltic states, of the former President, is making an extended visit to Berlin and Hamburg, negotiating with Hamburg-American line for further development of the joint service.

Plans are being made to hold their own against other lines out of Hamburg.

The latest invader is the British Royal Mail Steamship company, which plans to operate a route with four 15,000-tonners in April. Purely German trade is not the sole objective of the Harriman Hamburg-American combination and rival lines, as Hamburg is regarded as an attractive center for transshipment service via the Elbe to Czechoslovakia and to various Baltic ports.

Among the plans which are under consideration is the re-establishment of the line from former Austrian ports in the Adriatic to the United States. The Hamburg-American company, formerly strongly entrenched in Trieste and Fiume, would like to reopen its Adriatic service as soon as suitable ships can be secured. The tonnage questions, particularly steamers of the type best suited to present transatlantic conditions, is one of the principal problems of the German shipping experts.
